There are many ways to approach the greatest bard of all time, and Dartmouth's now famous "Shakespeare Seminar" is a delightful look at the Shakespeare all around us. Two mobsters in Kiss Me Kate break out into song and dance to brush up their Shakespeare.

Peter Saccio may not be a mobster skilled in soft-shoe, but he knows how to bring Shakespeare to life. Nearly four centuries after his death, Saccio insists that Shakespeare remains our contemporary, and for that reason the contrasting ways in which his plays have been interpreted have as much to tell us about Shakespeare as about ourselves.

For more information, or to reserve your space, please contact James von Rittmann '95 at DAASVTreasurer@aol.com.

And of course, there will be performances by Civilians, some featuring specially made never-to-be-seen-again karaoke videos. If you have any suggestions for performers, please share. If you're secretly Cher's best friend, now is the time to cash in that favor she owes you!

For more information, contact Steve Cosson '90 at admin@thecivilians.org

7. Don't Forget the DCF!

It is our responsibility to make sure that we challenge Dartmouth to be the best possible place for GLBTQ students and that we remind Dartmouth that we are part of its past and its future. Giving to the Dartmouth College Fund is the most tangible way to have D-GALA's voice be heard by the College.

As of today only 19% of D-GALA members have given to the Dartmouth College Fund. We need to beat the College-wide giving rate of 50% and to do that we need as many people as possible to give -- any donation will do.

Please help us make sure that Dartmouth continues to improve!

To give, visit https://www.dartmouthcollegefund.org/ALUM_give.htm
