

John Fergus
8-15-96

THE DARTMOUTH PENDANT

The Ideal Gift for Undergraduates, Alumni and Friends of Dartmouth. Shown exact size. The Pendant is minted in solid bronze, and handsomely finished in silver plate. Silver toned chain is 24". Gift boxed and shipped postpaid. The Pendants are $17.50 each.

PRICEWISE

Yank Price '35

13 South Main Street, Hanover, NH 03755

The Clear Choice In Retirement Living

You are personally invited to experience the revolutionary concept in full-service lifecare retirement living at Kimball Farms. Visit our Information Center in the Curtis Hotel (next to Lenox Library), write or call us for more information.

Kimball Farms at Lenox
The Curtis 4 Main Street Lenox, Mass. 01240
Call Collect (413) 637-9880. Outside Massachusetts Call Toll Free (800) 872-0061.

FREDERICK MCC
September 12, 198
came to Dartmouth from 1944 to 1946.

"Coop" was a member of Gamma Delta Chi, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and the Masons. He was active in the Eclipse Lodge 259 F & AM of East Rutherford, N.J., and in 1983 was selected as "Man of the Year" by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 227 of Rutherford.

Fred was the hardware manager for the Cooper Lumber Company in recent years. Previously he was the owner of the Park Hardware for 33 years, where he shared his fix-it knowledge with his appreciative customers.

Surviving are his wife, Marjorie, whom he married in August 1950, a daughter, Barbara Neimcewicz of Florida, N.Y., and two grandchildren.

1951

JOHN FERGUS died on September 8, 1986 at his home in Toronto, Canada. Known as Ferguson F. Thiel while at Dartmouth, his undergraduate major was English (American literature), and he was active in the Daily Dartmouth, the Dartmouth Corinthian Yacht Club, and Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity. Following his studies at the College, John served in the U.S. Army for two years, thereafter teaching for two years at the secondary level in Ontario. Beginning in 1956, he entered upon a ten-year relationship with the Jesuit Order, during which period he took two master's degrees, both from the University of Toronto, one in political economy in 1964 and one in philosophy in 1966. During the next 15 years, John traveled much and held a number of jobs, both in and out of education: curriculum designer, textbook salesman, bookstore clerk, art gallery director, and filmstrip producer. In 1981, he became a media analyst with the Canadian Media Corporation, where he remained until 1984, when forced to retire because of illness.

There are no known survivors.

1952

Dartmouth and the class of 1952 lost one of their most popular and loyal sons with the death of CHARLES MAURICE LYON on October 7, 1985 in Little Falls, N.Y.

Maury, known affectionately by many nicknames, was born in Ilion, N.Y. and graduated from local schools, and then the Holderness School. He got his B.A. from Dartmouth in 1952 and his M.B.A. from Tuck in 1953.

His legendary exploits in Ripley Hall continued into the Phi Delt House, where he was known for his congeniality, wit, and helpful hand. He fished every stream in New Hampshire, and he skied every mountain in New England. His friends were legion. He was a walking Dale Carnegie Institute . . . and free of charge!

Maury joined RCA after service in Korea with the Army Finance Corps, and then in 1957 he went to work for Martin Reel Com-

... gained recognition in the press for a successful seven-and-a-half hour battle with a 27-pound chinook salmon on a fly rod with 12-pound test line.

In 1961 he married the former Katharine Mulford, who, with their daughter, Caroline '84, survives. His father, Albert T., was a member of the class of 1922.

Maury was a man who loved people. He showed that love to his family and friends every day of his life in countless outward ways, but most importantly just by "being there." Now that he is gone, it is clear how much we felt his love, because we miss it so.

BILL HUTCHENS '53
1953

FREDERICK PAUL WOLF died August 8, 1986 of cancer. Familiarly known as Fokie, he grew up in Winthrop, Mass., and attended Cushing Academy before Dartmouth. Upon graduation, he spent three years as a lieutenant in the army and then started a career in the insurance industry, first with Prudential and then with Johnson and Higgins. He located in New Jersey, splitting his time between Montclair and a summer home in Spring Lake. Leaving insurance, he became involved in sales of money market plans and then in computer sales and consulting. In his later years, misfortune was a constant companion: divorce, family illness, and a bout with alcoholism which he overcame. Fokie had that unique and great capability to spring back and to remain positive in spite of some tough circumstances. At the time of his death he had joined the Unity Church and had undertaken the three-year preparation for its ministry. The philosophy and the teaching of that church is positive and upbeat with a central theme of sharing God's goodness. Undoubtedly Fokie had found something with which he had a great affinity, and it is a shame that he couldn't have completed this chapter of his life.

He is survived by five children and one grandchild. Class condolences have been expressed to the family through his oldest daughter, Georgina Wolf Correnti.

1958

Dartmouth and the class of 1958 lost a friend, AARON MORRELL, who died in San Francisco on September 10, 1986 after a long illness.

Aaron, a native Californian, graduated from McClatchy High School in Sacramento and entered Dartmouth, where he was a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon. After graduating from Dartmouth Aaron served in army intelligence in Berlin and then entered graduate school at Indiana University in the field of Slavic languages, earning his M.A. in 1964 and completing his course work towards a doctorate. He then joined the faculty of the University of Virginia, where he was an assistant professor specializing in Russian studies.

In the early 1970s, Aaron had a near-fatal automobile accident which left him legally blind and memory impaired. While he knew that he would have to abandon his academic career, he resolved to complete

