

(N.J.) High School, entering as a part of the Navy V-12 unit in July 1943. He was commissioned in June 1945 and served aboard the USS Hatfield.

Returning to campus in 1946, Ken joined Zeta Psi and Cabin and Trail and lettered in soccer. His major was economics. After graduation, he joined B. F. Goodrich Company as a sales correspondent. In 1950, he moved to Firestone, where his specialty was fuel cells that were used in aircraft, boats, and vehicles. His territory covered 11 western states.

Ken was active in community, trade, and fraternal organizations in the Los Angeles area. He enjoyed being with people and attended our 30th reunion, where he spoke of his plans for early retirement to Washington State. In 1982, he and Gwyn built a lovely retirement home on five acres high on a hill overlooking the Straits of Juan de Fuca. A boat at Dungeness gave them water access to the Puget Sound area. Two big labradors dogged his footsteps.

He married Dorothy J. Hart in 1945 with whom he had a son, Scott, in 1948. This marriage ended in divorce, and he married Gwynedd C. Allen in 1964. She and two stepdaughters survive him. Gwyn tells us that Ken lived a full life, albeit much too short.

TERENCE PATRICK FOGARTY, M.D., died September 18, 1984, of a heart attack. Terry practiced ophthalmology with a group in New York City. He had been a member of the faculty of NYU Medical Center Hospital and Bellevue Hospital since 1958.

At Dartmouth, Terry majored in chemistry and zoology and was a member of Kappa Kappa Kappa fraternity, where he will be remembered as the solo tenor of the fraternity glee club. After Dartmouth, Terry obtained a medical degree from Cornell Medical School in 1955. He then served as a captain in the U.S. Army Medical Corps prior to entering private practice.

Terry is survived by his wife, Monika, and a son, Sascha Ian.
