

Koberl J G...
5-2-95

centennial year of 1984. He was the editor of the Journal From Frontier to Catawmet. It was Dick who began the demonstrations of Native American flag and candle-making especially for the school children missing Apruxet.

Dick is survived by sons Richard P. '63 and Timothy M. and daughter Prudence. His wife, Ruth, died in 1994 of Alzheimer's disease.

1940

Sherman Lothair Richards Jr.

died May 29. At the time, he was living at 195 Bentham Parkway East, Snyder, N.Y. Sperm was born in Weston, W.V., and came to Dartmouth from Wyoming Seminary and graduated from Harvard Business School in 1941. At College Sperm was a member of Bones Gate/DTD. From 1941 to 1945 he was employed by Bell Aircraft Corp. and then headed manpower development and negotiated labor contracts for Columbus McKinnon Corp. in Tonawanda, N.Y., until 1982. Sperm was a member and president of the Kiwanis Club, on the board of directors of the Boys Club, the YMCA, and the Chamber of Commerce. He is survived by his wife, Alice Russell Richards; daughter Barbara Wilson; sons Sherman L. III and John R.; and five grandchildren.

1943

William Hunt

died at home in Las Cruces, N.M., on May 3 of cardiopulmonary arrest. At Dartmouth Bill was enrolled in the Navy V-12 program, a member of Alpha Delta Phi, and elected to Phi Beta Kappa. Upon graduation in 1943 he completed his medical education at the University of Minnesota Medical School. After serving in the navy from 1945 to 1948 Bill completed a residency in obstetrics/gynecology at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn. Subsequently he practiced in Fergus Falls, Minn., and in Danville, Penn., at the Gelsinger Medical Center. In 1980 he joined the staff of the New Mexico State University Health Center where he remained until his retirement in 1986.

Bill leaves his wife, Maggie, to whom he was married for 50 years, and his daughters Catherine, Deborah, Nancy, Jane, Joanne, and Jean, seven granddaughters, and one grandson.

1945

Robert Donald Oldfield, Jr.

died suddenly on June 17 of heart failure in Bradenton, Fla. He attended Elyria High School. At Dartmouth he was a member of Theta Delta Chi fraternity, the Dartmouth Players, and the International Relations Club. His education was interrupted during World War II when he joined the V-12 program at Dartmouth and later served in the Pacific Theater of operations with the navy, attaining the rank of lieutenant (jg). Returning to Dartmouth, he majored in engineering sciences, receiving his B.A. in 1947, and an M.S.M.E. in 1948 from Thayer School.

Barney's first job was sales engineer for Johnson Bronze Co., New Castle, Penn. In 1951 he joined Ohio Screw Products Inc., Elyria, Ohio, as sales manager, and subsequently became president from 1965-1977. Upon selling the business he relocated to Bradenton, Fla., where he became president of his own company, Component Service Inc. Barney served as class treasurer from 1955-1965, a member of the Class Executive Committee from 1955-1975, and interviewer of prospective Dartmouth students from

He is survived by his wife, Moll D. Oldfield III '81; daughters Ret Smith and Molly Oldfield Yen; an children.

1951

Robert Joseph Goode

of Indianapolis died May 2. Bob came to the College after 27 months of service in World War II and the Korean War, of which 14 were overseas. He was discharged as a first lieutenant. Before that he attended Culver Military Academy. At Dartmouth he was a member of Phi Delta Theta and Phi Beta Kappa. After getting his M.B.A. from Tuck in 1954 Bob went to work with Eli Lilly & Co., staying with that company until his retirement in 1989. He and his wife, Frances, were married while he was a student in 1952. Of their seven children, the eldest was born in Hanover in 1953.

1952

William Bartlett

died at home in Concord, Calif., March 6, 1993. He was still active as assistant district attorney in nearby Martinez, where he served for 30 years. Following graduation he served for four years in the air force and became fluent in Russian. He graduated from Bolt Law School at U. C. Berkeley. He was very active in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and was a member of several professional organizations. He is survived by his wife, Rhonda, and three sons.

Donald Chambless

died in Chicago in July 1993. He graduated from a Tuck a year later and then was commissioned in the navy for three and a half years. He then spent a decade in a Chicago food company and then his own business, followed by a career in securities and investments. He was active in local, civic, and charitable affairs and received an award for fund raising for the benefit of youth in the Chicago Boys and Girls Clubs. He is survived by his wife, Gundula, two sons, and two daughters.

Thomas Henry Ford III

of Philadelphia died March 4, 1992. He graduated with an education major. Tom was a law graduate of the University of Connecticut but devoted his life to teaching. His last position was director of the middle school at the Friends Select School in Philadelphia. He served in the navy during World War II.

James G. Gardner

died of a heart attack in Greer, Ariz., November 13, 1993. After a stint in Japan with the Marine Corps, Jim returned to his native Arizona and chose a career in banking. He is survived by his wife, Esther, and three daughters, Linda, Elizabeth, and Lisa.

John Hubbard

died in an automobile accident September 13, 1993. He came to theater more than two decades after graduation and built a remarkable career. He directed 46 productions for eight different theaters, acted in 36 different roles in theater and film, received a master's of arts in theater in 1983 and taught theater to Ohio students at Kent State and Ashtabula Arts Center, where he was theater coordinator for many years. His role as Theodore Roosevelt in The One Man Show is considered a action in an editorial by quoting Shakespeare, "Act well your part, there all the honor lies."

William V. Murphy

died in an accident in Ohio September 16, 1993. Murph lettered in both football and hockey in college and was a member of Alpha Delta fraternity and Sphinx. After service in a fighter squadron in the Korean War, he worked for McLouth Steel Corp. in Detroit, and was a resident in nearby Birmingham, Mich. He is survived by his wife, Jane.

1978

Richard Jewell Bernier

died on December 15, 1994, at Rhode Island Hospital in Providence, R.I., after a long illness.

He was born June 27, 1956, in Exeter, N.H., and lived there and in Ellicott City, Md., before moving to Mattapoisett, Mass., in 1990.

At Dartmouth he did foreign study in both Russian and French. After Dartmouth he received his medical degree from Albany Medical College and completed his medical residency at the University of Maryland. He was a psychiatrist with the New Bedford Center for Human Services from 1989 to 1992 and with Fuller Memorial Hospital in Attleboro, Mass., as well as the Child and Family Service in New Bedford from 1993 until July of 1994, when he became ill.

He was a member of St. Gabriel's Episcopal Church in Marion, Mass.; the New Bedford Chamber of Commerce; and the American Psychiatric Association.

He is survived by his mother, Alberta B. (Eaton) Bernier, of Seabrook, N.H., and several aunts, uncles, and cousins.

Stephen Robinson Hollands died October 27, 1994, in Minneapolis, Minn., of a melanoma. He is survived by his wife, Barbara Thompson, and their daughters, Johanna Thompson-Hollands 10 and Elizabeth Thompson-Hollands 6. If you would like to express your condolences, their address is 370 Roslyn Place, Minneapolis, MN 55419-2547.

James C. Pramberg

died on July 3 at Tulane University Hospital, New Orleans, La., from cardiac arrest following endocarditis. He was a pediatrician at Tulane University Medical Center.

Jim was born in Newburyport, Mass., was graduated from Governor Dummer Academy in 1974, from Dartmouth in 1978, and from Tulane School of Medicine in 1983, where he later was an assistant professor of pediatrics. He was also a staff physician at the Tulane/LSU AIDS Clinical Trials Unit and the Pediatric HIV Clinic at Charity Hospital, and he participated in eight clinical trials of medicines and vaccines designed to fight AIDS in women and children.

He was senior warden at St. Anna's Episcopal Church, a member of the Episcopal Diocese of Louisiana's Commission on HIV infection, and a board member of the March of Dimes. While at Dartmouth Jim majored in classics, volunteered for four years at Mary Hitchcock Hospital, was a member of the Nathan Smith Society and Fire and Skoal, and was active in Edgerton House, the Episcopal Student Center.

Survivors include his parents, John and Noreen Pramberg, brothers John and Jay, three nephews, and one niece.