JOHN HAYES WOOLDRIDGE, who graduated from Peekskill Military Academy and served in the Army Air Corps before entering Dartmouth, died on August 4 at his residence in Clearfield, Pa.

A member of Phi Delta Theta, the Flying Club, and the DOC at Dartmouth, John attended Dartmouth Medical School for two years and was graduated from Jefferson Medical School in Philadelphia in 1952. After his internship, he returned to Clearfield, his place of birth, where he was affiliated with his late father in the practice of medicine. In 1954, he was named to the staff of Mary Hitchcock Hospital, and he also studied at the New York State Upstate Medical Center, Syracuse University, before returning to Clearfield in 1959 to open his own practice.

He is survived by his wife, the former Jane Radomsky, and four daughters. John also had one granddaughter. John practiced general surgery in Clearfield for nearly 25 years and was a member of the American College of Surgeons. His steadfastness of spirit and purpose will be missed.

ROBERT WILMER HIRSCHMAN passed away in mid-September after a long bout with cancer. He resided in London, England.

After Dartmouth and Tuck School, Bob joined Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Company after receiving his C.P.A. designation. He was then transferred to Europe by PMM to make a world-wide examination of the Army and Air Force Exchange Service, better known as the PX Systems. Bob lived and worked in Europe on various assignments after that.

In 1962, he joined IMS International and Intercon International as European controller. The firms specialize in market research and advertising for pharmaceutical companies. Bob also had a stint as an instructor at Ohio State University in Columbus.

Bob had two articles published during his career: "Accounting in the Soviet Union," in the Financial Executive and "Direct Costing and the Law," in the Accounting Review. Bob was also an active member of the American Institute of CPAs, the New York State Society of CPAs, and the American Accounting Association.

Bob was single and is survived by his brother Earl of Rochester, N.Y., his mother, and a sister. The family has requested that all memorials be sent to the Dartmouth Alumni Fund in Bob's name.

EDWARD HARVEY SPALDING passed away on September 3 from heart failure. He resided in Whitefield, N.H.

Ted was with us at Dartmouth only one year, before transferring to the Hotel School at the University of New Hampshire and then going on to a distinguished career in the resort hotel industry. Among his contributions to the field were several directorships as well as the presidency of the New Hampshire Hotel Association and the New England Innkeepers Association. Ted also had been chairman of the board of overseers of the Hanover Inn.

At the time of his death, Ted was the owner and managing director of the Spalding Inn Club in Whitefield, which, with his wife Topsy, he acquired from his parents in 1969. During this period, he was instrumental in expanding the capacity and reputation of that long-established its present world

Based on the t tains region of Ne its past glory as a in a number of lo nomic development ventures. Ted had the capacity for total involvement in that which interested or affected him, and he was a voracious reader. He was a student of public affairs and of New Hampshire and White Mountain history, particularly of the colonial period.

Besides his wife Topsy, Ted is survived by two daughters and three step-children. Topsy plans to continue operating the Spalding Inn and would welcome all friends from Dartmouth as well as the class of 1951.

On September 2, JOHN FRANCIS LANIGAN passed away very suddenly. John came to Dartmouth from Belmont, Mass. At Belmont High School, he distinguished himself as an excellent athlete and starred in football, hockey, and baseball.

At Dartmouth, John majored in English and played varsity hockey. He was a versatile hockey player and played both forward and defense, and he was one of the finest left-wingers in Dartmouth history. Typical of John's personality was that he accepted the conversion from defense to wing without a complaint as he accepted Coach Jeremiah's need for forwards. John was also a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

Upon graduation, John entered the U.S. Marine Corps and successfully completed flight training. John flew the A-4 Skyhawk, a jet attack aircraft. He served in the Marines for five years and on completion of active duty commenced his business career with Procter and Gamble. Later, while employed with Bolt, Beranek and Newman, John became interested in computers, and he continued this interest throughout his business career. He received his M.B.A. from Northeastern University in 1969.

He leaves his wife, Dorothy Wynott Lanigan, and their two children — Michael, who is a junior in high school, and Kathleen, who is a junior high school student. The Lanigan family has resided in Sudbury, Mass., for the last 18 years. It certainly is hard to imagine that such a good-looking, rugged man is no longer with us. We will all miss John, his wonderful personality, and his friendship.

Condolences may be sent to the Lanigan family at 40 Tanbark Road, Sudbury, Mass. 01776.

We were greatly saddened to learn of the death of JOHN TAYLOR LEANDER, who died July 18. Born and raised in Manchester, Conn., John completed his Dartmouth education through the study of mechanical engineering at Thayer School. After two years in the Navy, he began his engineering career with Emhart Corporation, the glass machinery manufacturer now known as Emhart Industries, which is based in Hartford, Conn. John served Emhart in a variety of positions over a 22-year career with the company.

He is survived by his wife Arlene, a son Eric, and a daughter Kristen. John will be missed, and the class extends its deepest sympathy to John's family and friends.
