

V-12 officer candidate. Two years later, when WW II ended, he accepted a release to non-active duty in the Reserve. He received his B.A. from Dartmouth in 1948, majoring in psychology. In 1951 he received a J.D. from Columbia School of Law. Career highlights included working in the Office of Legislative Affairs, dealing with the House and Senate Armed Services committees; in the 3rd Naval District Headquarters as a legal adviser, appearing in more than 240 courts martial; and as a military judge in the United States, London, England and Germany. Soon after his retirement as a commander in 1972, he was appointed a chief of international law for the Air Force for the region including the United Kingdom, Germany and part of France and Africa. In 1987 he received the prestigious James O. Rightson Jr. Award as the Air Force's outstanding civilian attorney. He is survived by children Elisabeth, Mary, Coleman and William with his first wife, Alice, and his second wife, Paula, and their children Jonathan and Rosanna.

Paul Harmon Spiers Jr. died December 26, 1999. In attending Dartmouth, he followed his father, Paul Spiers, and his uncle, James Moody, both members of the class of 1922. He was a brother of Sigma Chi and majored in history and English, earning the Lockwood Writing Prize; he was also interested in debating, The Dartmouth and intramural football. He obtained a B.S. in journalism from Boston University in 1949 and was a reporter and editor for various publications before becoming general news manager of New England Telephone, senior vice president for Nicolazzo & Associates and later a media consultant to the government of Kuwait during the Gulf War. He served Dartmouth as class treasurer and public information chairman and member of the Alumni Association of Eastern Massachusetts board. Paul's first wife was Anne Ross and his second wife is Linda Dryden. He had six children: Paul, Suzanne, Heather, Jay, Elizabeth and Bruce, plus several grandchildren.

1949

William Douglas Carter died on July 29, 2000. Doug had suffered for some time from Pick's disease and was in a nursing home in Sterling, Virginia, at the time of his death. He came to Dartmouth from Hanover High and had served in the Army Air Force, 1944-45. A geology major, he was also active in the DOC and Glee Club and was a member of Theta Chi and Casque & Gauntlet. He later studied geology at Johns Hopkins and the University of Colorado. He worked for the U.S. Geological Survey for 32 years, with such diverse assignments as five years in Chile, space development for NASA and work on EROS-Landset. He also served as class agent. He is survived by his wife, Mary, daughters Judy and Katherine, son William and brother-in-law Doug Stevenson of '49. Doug's father, William A. Carter, was member of the class of 1920.

Burt C. Proom died on November 1, 2001, of a heart attack at his home in Caldwell, New Jersey. He came to Dartmouth from Cleveland High School in Caldwell, New Jersey. At Dartmouth he was a chemistry-zoology major and a member of Beta Theta Phi and Sphinx. He served in the European theater with the U.S. Army in WW II. After graduation his career was spent in the insurance industry and from 1974 to 1990 he was president and CEO of the American Nuclear Insurers, insuring nuclear power plants in America and other parts of the world. Burt was ever active for Dartmouth, serving as class president at the time of his death. He is survived by his wife, Carol; son William; daughter Betsy; stepdaughters Betsy, Meg and Sarah; and nine grandchildren. He will be missed by all of us.

1950

John D. Williams died on March 17, 2001 in Georgetown, South Carolina. Jack came to Dartmouth from Levonia (New Jersey) High School after a stint in the Navy. He was a member of the Handel Society and the orchestra, majored in economics and graduated from Tuck School. After Tuck he worked for GE and then the Mead Corp. and Loctite in accounting and management information services, living in Schenectady, New York; Dayton, Ohio; Farmington, Connecticut; and Dublin, Ireland. Jack is survived by his wife, Judy, and three daughters.

1951

Michael Iovenko died December 1, 2001, of a heart attack while playing tennis in Manhattan. Born in New York and graduated from the Horace Mann School, his years at Dartmouth revolved around debate organizations and The Quarterly, which he edited. A philosophy major, he went on to Columbia University Law School, finishing there in 1954. His career included 36 years practicing corporate and banking law, a two-year stint as deputy superintendent and counsel of the New York State Banking Department and his work as a member of the United States delegation to the United Nations General Assembly in 1967. He was perhaps best known as president of the Legal Aid Society in the 1990s. One of Mike's pleasures was serving as a director and president of the French-American Foundation, and he was recently named a chevalier of the National Order of Merit by the French government. Mike is survived by his second wife, Nancy. Also surviving are his sons from his first marriage, Christopher and William, and two grandchildren.

1952

Calvin Rumph died of colon cancer at Biloxi Veterans Hospital, Mississippi, in 1995, according to recent notification from his son, Calvin Jr. "He rests in one of the local military cemeteries in Mobile, Alabama," wrote Calvin Jr. "My father was unable to complete his education at your institution. However, let me applaud your admin-to attend the University of Alabama because it was not integrated." An ordained minister, pastor of the Emanuel Temple Holiness Church in Birmingham, Calvin was married with five children. He came to Dartmouth from Collegiate Preparatory School after 30 months in the Army as a staff sergeant. He was a popular student who left the College too early.

1953

John W. Eichelberger died of liver cancer in Dayton, Ohio, on April 21, 2001. After Dartmouth he attended Boston University Law School, graduating in 1956. After passing the Ohio bar he joined the law firm of Curtner, Brenton and O'Hara, serving as an associate until being drafted into the Army in 1957. Following two years in the Army Jack joined the Dayton law firm of Duncan, Garman, Sweeney & Eichelberger, where he practiced for 10 years before leaving to form his own firm with a close friend, maintaining this practice for an additional 34 years. He was a lifetime member of St. Paul's Episcopal Church and also was a member of Amvets, Dayton and Ohio Bar associations and the Dayton Country Club. He and his wife maintained a second home in Florida, dividing their time between the Florida and Dayton residences. He was a collector of classic cars, which included a 1929 Packard convertible and a 1930 Packard touring car. John is survived by his wife of 34 years, Sally, two sons and a daughter.

Augustus S. McGuire died after a long bout with cancer August 27, 2001, in Seneca, South Carolina. Gus left Dartmouth after two years to enter the Paulist Fathers and was ordained in 1959. He received two master's degrees from St. Joseph's Seminary in Dunwoodie, New York. "Father Gus" served as parish priest in Toronto, Manhattan, Houston, Austin and in South Carolina. He was fluent in Spanish, Italian and Portuguese and said Masses in these languages at the parishes he served. At Dartmouth Gus played football and was a member of Phi Gamma Delta. He is survived by brothers John '52 and Robert '57 and sister Lucy. One of his parishioners paid him tribute, saying, "He was a great priest, a knowledgeable man and a true friend to all."

1957

William S. Gennerich died July 23, 2001, at Mercy Medical Center in Rockville Centre, New York, after a 10-month battle with esophagus cancer. Bill came to Dartmouth from Valley Stream, New York, and was a lifelong resident on Long Island. While at Dartmouth Bill was a history major and a member of the Glee Club and the Injunaires. He was also an active member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, where his support of "fraternity hums" competition was legendary. After graduation Bill earned a bachelor's of law degree at St. John's University in Queens, New

Michael Iovenko
12-1-01