

Theater. As an undergraduate he was editorial chairman and editor of The Dartmouth in 1948 and 1949 and an advisory editor of the Dartmouth Quarterly. He was also a member of Palaeopitus and served on the Undergraduate Council.

During his publishing career he was senior editor at Harcourt Brace, vice president of Holt, Rhinehart & Winston, and vice president of Noble and Noble. He was also proprietor of the Francis Beale American Arts and Antique Business. He assisted in forming many distinguished public and private collections of fine arts and antique furniture.

He was a vestryman in the Episcopal church in both New York and Essex and a longtime board member and past president of the Essex Library Association.

Frank was not married and left no survivors.

Robert W. Berry

of Easton, Conn., died May 30 at St. Vincent's Medical Center in Bridgeport, where he had been an attending thoracic surgeon for more than 30 years. Bob came to Hanover with the Navy V-12 in 1944. Following graduation he attended the medical school at Dartmouth and Columbia.

He practiced for more than 30 years in the Bridgeport area at various hospitals where he also served in such roles as chief of staff, chief of surgery, and chief of cardiac surgery. At St. Vincent's he became director of cardiac quality assurance after retiring from surgery.

Bob served as a flight surgeon in the navy during the Korean War. He was a founding member of the American Astronautical Society, a Dartmouth Club past president, and a member of the Easton Banjo Society. Bob also served on the selection committee for the Dartmouth Medical School's Syvertson Scholar. Three sons graduated from the College: Robert '75, Richard '79, and William '84. They survive along with Bob's wife, Jeanette, and two daughters.

1949

Lewis DeLamater Geer Sr.

died at his home in North Ft. Meyers, Fla., on April 8 under the care of Hope Hospice. He was born in Mineola, N.Y. At Dartmouth he earned his letters in track and cross country, majored in history, and was a member of Beta Theta Pi.

An army veteran of WW II, Lewis retired to Ft. Myers in 1983 after 30 years with Amoco Oil Co. He was a founding member of the Newaygo, Mich., Jaycees, and a member of the Cape Coral Moose Lodge, Ludington Michigan Elks Lodge, and St. Lukes Episcopal Church of Ft. Myers.

He is survived by his wife, Dolores Irene, sons Lewis Jr. and John, daughters Carol and Mary Jane, four granddaughters, and a sister, Mary Eysman.

Thomas Hill Huggins

of Mooresville, N.C., succumbed on April 27 to bone cancer, from which he had suffered for almost 20 years—15 more than doctors predicted he would survive. He attended his 45th Reunion despite his illness, even walking down Tuck Drive to the river and back.

Tom served in the army for two and a half years during WW II. At the College and while earning his M.B.A. at Tuck, Tom belonged to the DOC and the Ledyard Canoe Club. After Dartmouth he worked in sales in New Hampshire. In 1970, in Charlotte, N.C., he founded Label Service Inc., which he later sold upon retirement.

Much of Tom's life was dedicated to volunteer work on behalf of peace initiatives, hunger projects, and environmental causes. He promoted recycling before for trees leveled by paper mills rather than

Tom is survived by Peter, daughters Katherine, a sister, and five grandchildren.

Roger Hastings Sheldon

died at his home in Sag Harbor, N.Y., on February 26. Roger, whose father was a member of the class of 1918, came to Dartmouth from Albany Academy, having received a medical discharge after brief service in the navy. A pre-med elected to Phi Beta as a junior, Roger joined Theta Delta Chi and was on the ski team. He continued to ski throughout his life.

After Dartmouth Roger earned an M.A. in economics at Oxford. His early career affiliations included the Arthur D. Little Co. Subsequently he was assistant to the dean at Cornell University Medical College and then vice president for planning at New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center in New York City. He retired in 1991 and, fulfilling a lifelong interest, became a landscape contractor on Long Island. A brother and two nieces survive.

1950

John R. Moulton

died on February 22 in Madison, Wis., after a four-year bout with prostate cancer, during which time he was active in counseling and supporting others with the disease. John taught philosophy at Dartmouth in the early seventies and at Reed College, the University of Washington, and the University of Wisconsin, the latter for 20 years until his retirement. His Dartmouth family includes brother-in-law Jack Elliott '50, son Jonathan '81, nephews John Elliott '75 and Glen Elliott '80, and his niece Susan Elliott '82. John was a Theta Delta, a member of Dragon, a philosophy major, and an avid skier. He earned his Ph.D. at the University of California at Berkeley. In the sixties John was an anti-war activist and was active with the ACLU. In addition to those mentioned, John leaves his wife, Inga Berg; three other children, Russell, Sarah, and Tanya; his sister, Ann Elliott; and his ex-wife and friend, Joyce Moulton.

1951

James T. Keegan

died on March 25 after a long illness. Jim came to Dartmouth from Bridgeport, Conn. After finishing his medical studies at the University of Maryland he spent two years as a navy doctor, achieving the rank of commander. His service included a year at sea.

After discharge he started private practice as a general surgeon in Milford, Conn. He was also team physician for Milford High School and, later, for Platt Votch of Milford, and he served as New Haven medical examiner for 11 years.

Jim was an alumni interviewer and chairman of the book-award committee of the Bridgeport Dartmouth Club. He was a member, director, and officer of countless professional and civic organizations. An avid sailor, he was known as a compassionate healer and well-spoken conversationalist.

Surviving are Jim's wife, Joan, three children, and two grandsons.

1952

Slade W. Sibley

died of lung cancer at his home in La Jolla, Calif. He left the College in 1951 to join the Marine Corps, received a commission, and served in Korea. There he received very serious brain injuries which prevented him from working or engaging in business. He was capable of making dren.

James T. Keegan

3-25-95

1955

Melville Tatsapaugh Jr.

of San Francisco, Calif., died on December 3, 1992, it was recently learned from his uncle, Joseph A. Parachini '35. Mel was an architect and painter and had lived in San Francisco for a number of years. He was interested in conservation and in the early sixties worked on a project to prevent the construction of a nuclear power plant at Bodega Bay, Calif., which is in an active fault zone. Mel came to Dartmouth from Hotchkiss and majored in modern art. He was active in the DOC and International Relations Club. After graduation he served in the army for two years. In addition to his uncle, he is survived by his sister, Mrs. Jean Gobillot of Flemington, N.J.

1963

Timothy Brandt

died April 5 at his home in Acton, Mass., of stomach cancer. He was a systems analyst at Wang Laboratories for 18 years.

A native of Fergus Falls, Minn., Tim was a brother of Gamma Delta Chi. He entered the computer field immediately on graduation, working at Marine Midland Grace Trust Co. of New York and Marine Midland Services Corp. for seven years and rising to supervisory analyst. In 1970 Tim joined PHI Computer Services Inc., a consulting firm, and eventually was hired by Wang, one of PHI's clients, in Lowell, Mass.

Brandt is survived by his son Andrew, his father, Rodney Brandt of Fergus Falls, Minn., brothers Jay and Dennis, and his former wife and dear friend Nancy Larkin.

1968

Douglas A. Farmer Jr.

died March 10 at home in Madison, Conn. He entered Dartmouth from Needham (Mass.) High School, majored in chemistry, and was a member of Phoenix. During the Vietnam War Doug served in the navy as a communications officer aboard the U.S.S. Truxtun. At the time of his death he was a senior applications specialist at Olin Corp. in Cheshire, Conn.

Doug was active in his community, coaching in the Madison Youth Soccer Program and Madison Little League and having served as president of the board of trustees of the Shoreline Unitarian Universalist Society Church. He is survived by his wife, Jennifer Oakham Farmer, children Douglas III, Deborah, and Johanna Fitzgerald, brothers James II and Jeffrey, and a sister, Judith Wales. Doug was predeceased by his sister Nancy.

1973

Albert Lee Knight

died on November 13, 1990. Albert was a native of Newport News, Va., where he graduated from George Washington Carver High School. At Dartmouth he majored in history and was a four-year member of the Admissions Department's black student applicants' committee.

After receiving a J.D. from the University of Michigan Law School, Albert began his legal career. He did not maintain contact with Dartmouth after law school, and we have no information about his life after 1976. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Knight, in Newport News, Va.

10/95