

versity Medical School, graduating in 1948. He interned at Evanston Hospital and was appointed to the staff in 1957. He was also on the staff at Northwestern University Medical School's department of obstetrics as a clinical associate professor.

During World War II, Buzz was in a naval medical training program, and he later became a captain in the U.S. Air Force during the Korean War.

He was a member of the Chicago Gynecological Society, for which he served as president from 1983 to 1984. He was also a member of the American Medical Association, the Illinois and Chicago Medical Societies, the American Board of Obstetrics, the American Society of Cytology, the American Fertility Society, and the Central Association of Obstetricians and Gynecologists.

He is survived by his wife, Marilyn; two daughters, Katherine F. Herr and Barbara Swift Farrar; his mother, Myrtle Vollers; and two brothers, Louis V. '49 and Paul S. His late father, Holden K. was the class of 1919.

1950

The last day was not unexpected, for he suffered from a malignant brain tumor. Still, it was a surprise and much too early when ROBERT CAMPBELL DAY of Mountain Lakes, N.J., died on June 28.

Bob was one of a contingent of classmates from Bronxville, N.Y., High School, where his peers elected him president of the student council in his senior year. He entered Dartmouth in 1945, but a year as a private in the Army Corps of Engineers interrupted his freshman year. He joined us again in February 1947. Bob, a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity, majored in economics.

After a two-year stint as a trainee at General Electric, Bob joined the Union Camp Corporation to start a 32-year career in sales and marketing. He was a sales manager during the 1960s in Pennsylvania and Georgia prior to being appointed general manager of the Schools Supply Division in New York City in 1968. Subsequently, Bob became marketing manager of the Retail Packaging Group at corporate headquarters in Wayne, N.J.

Bob had many gifts. His intellect was varied and probing. His sense of humor, which found an outlet in the Jack-O-Lantern, prodded at our foibles. But his greatest gift was an abiding concern for his many friends and his family.

In 1961 Bob married Patricia Grant, a graduate of Louisiana State University. They had two children: a daughter, Leslie, and a son, R. Grant.

1951

DONALD RHODES KLINCK died May 10 after a long illness. Don resided in East Haddam, Conn., where he lived for 28 years.

Don was active in business and community affairs. He was president and owner of both W. C. Roo Insurance Agency and the Century 21 Root Real Estate Agency. He was the past president of the Greater Middletown Board of Realtors, G.R.I., and past president of the East Haddam Rotary Club. He was a member of the vestry of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church and served as treasurer of the church. He was elected town clerk of East Haddam for three terms and also served on the board of education for six years. He was a member of the Westbrook Elks and Columbia Lodge 26.

At Dartmouth, Don majored in English. Upon graduation, he did graduate work at both Columbia University and the University of Connecticut and taught at the Loomis School in Windsor, Conn.

He is survived by his wife, Mary Ellen (Sweeney), commissioner of the Department of Aging for the state of Connecticut, as well as his mother and three children, Kathleen, Elizabeth, and Philip.

1952

It was recently reported that JOHN PENNELL ABORN died on June 1, 1982. John received a B.S. in business administration from the University of Rhode Island in 1954. According to some outdated records John had worked for the Crescent Department Stores in Spokane, Wash., where he had been assistant to the divisional merchandising manager. His grandfather, Willard, was in the class of 1893; his father, John, was class of '22, and his brother, Foster, was class of '56.

Our deepest sympathy is extended to John's wife and family.

Dr. Oliver Andrus '28 informed me of the death of his son, MILTON OLIVER ANDRUS, on June 7, apparently of a heart attack.

Milt came to Dartmouth from Devon, Conn. After graduation he served in the army, following which he received graduate degrees from Bridgeport University and Columbia University. Milt was a school teacher in the Milford, Conn., public schools. His brother, Wayne, is in the class of '57; a nephew, Bruce, is in the class of '83.

The sympathy of the class is extended to Dr. and Mrs. Andrus and their family.

Dr. WILLIAM BURROUGHS STAFFORD died on April 13 in San Diego, Calif. Bill was a pediatrician in Fullerton, Calif., where he was the highly regarded chairman of the pediatrics department of St. Jude Hospital.

Bill was active in professional and community affairs in and around Orange County. At Dartmouth he was a member of Green Key, was the national advertising manager of The Dartmouth, and was a vice president of the Young Republicans at Dartmouth.

To his wife Jan and children, Bill, Denise, and Jeff, go the heartfelt condolences of the class.

1954

JOHN TUCK JR., reknowned Antarctic explorer, died August 13 in the University of Massachusetts Hospital in Worcester of a stroke following an accident two days earlier. He was 51.

John came to Dartmouth from Deerfield Academy. He was a member of Gamma Delta Chi fraternity and graduated Phi Beta Kappa. Following graduation, he was commissioned an ensign in the navy and served aboard the icebreaker Edisto in the Arctic. He volunteered for the navy operation Deep Freeze in Antarctica and became the first American to spend two successive winters there. He spent his first winter at McMurdo Sound in charge of sled dogs. He codirected construction of the South Pole scientific station and later became its first commander. In recognition of the Antarctic explorations, Mount Tuck on that continent bears his name.

After his discharge from the navy, John became a professor of geography at the University of Wisconsin, where he earned his

Ned Redpath

are relocating to a new office Hanover, right next to Carroll rn.

to serve you and, obviously,

visit to Hanover. Please feel it refreshing, up-country real

THE CHOICE is a stunningly 850 cape home that has been artfully redesigned and totally restored, cedral ceilings, exposed beams, open lots of windows, and kitchen with alcove, as well as two baths and four Extras include a chicken coop, tree woodstove and kitchen woodstove. All res with lively views in picturesque Vermont. $79,900

ermont and overlooking the beautiful ), the quality features of older homes s and attached barn now converted to ig price of $280,000.

g, built in 1979, featuring hewn oak inets and brass hardware. Large brick area, master bedroom ell, two other Dartmouth campus and Main Street

03755 / (603) 643-6406

Ext. 3176

mprey, Marlene Foley

10/87