

1944. He was discharged in 1946 as a lieutenant, and returned to Dartmouth, graduating in 1947.

Al spent most of his career in the foundry business, beginning in New Castle, Del., transferring to the West Coast, and then returning East to Atlanta. He is survived by his wife, Marion, and two children.

—Edward B. Smith '45

1947

Leonard D. Hall

of Goffstown and Franconia, N.H., died suddenly on October 26. Leonard entered Dartmouth from Goffstown High School and was assigned to the V-5, and then the V-12 unit. He graduated in 1947, a political science major. He worked for Shell Oil Co. and for the family business, L.M. Hall Awning Co., Manchester. In 1950 he was recalled for two more years of army service in Germany. Following this Leonard made a career as a teacher in elementary schools in Amherst and Goffstown, N.H. He served as principal of schools in Weare, Lancaster, Whitefield, and Plymouth. He married in 1950 and is survived by his family, wife Lucy H. Hall, three daughters, a son, and a brother.

Milton J. Hofflin Jr.

a resident of New York City, died November 29 following a long illness. Sonny was a civilian arrival in Hanover in July 1943. He graduated Summa Cum Laude in 1947 after serving as an army infantryman in Europe.

In his working career Sonny was associated with architectural firms involved in department-store planning. He worked with the firm of Copeland, Novack & Israel, with Charles Copeland Co., and for a long period with Saks Fifth Avenue, where he was Adam Gimbel's assistant, coordinating and opening new stores.

Sonny was a supporter of the Metropolitan Museum, the Museum of Modern Art, and the Boy Scouts of America.

Sonny loved skiing, which he enjoyed around the world, and was a fine tennis player.

His marriage to Nancy Bookman ended in divorce. Sonny is survived by a cousin, Melville Strauss '50.

1949

David Osborne Cowles

died on December 28 in Naples, Fla. David entered Dartmouth from Hanover High. His father, Ozzie Cowles, was coach of Dartmouth basketball at the time.

David served in the O.S.S. in WW II and after attending Union Theological Seminary, he went on to teach at St. Paul's School in Concord, N.H. He served as a curate at St. John's Church in Waterbury, Conn., and finally as priest at Christ Episcopal Church in Norwich, Conn. He is survived by a daughter, Ann, and his father.

1950

William D. Wallace

died of cancer on December 13 in New York City. Bill entered Dartmouth from West Hartford, Conn. He graduated with honors after serving five years in the army as a first lieutenant in the Korean War. with an M.B.A. from W entire career in New Y business, most recently & Co. He was active in affairs and leaves his w son William '82, and b

Warren D Mulloy
1-14-92

1951

Warren D. Mulloy

a lifelong resident of Media, Penn., died January 14 after a three-year fight with leukemia. Following law school at Penn, his career moved between public, corporate, and private practice, part of it in the U.S. Attorney's office. Most recently, he was a partner in the firm Berger and Montague.

"Stretch" was a member of Sigma Chi and Green Key, played in the band, and captained the basketball team. He was always willing to help people.

Always active in civic matters, he was a school board president, township council chairman, Delaware County March of Dimes board member, and a deacon in the Presbyterian Church.

He is survived by his second wife, his father, three daughters, including Amy Kilkenny '84, a son, a step-daughter, a step-son, and two sisters.

1953

Victor M. Cannon

died in his sleep November 25 from a massive heart attack. Vic came to Dartmouth from University School in Cleveland, majored in philosophy, and was a member of Phi Delta Theta. He was a voracious reader of English literature and foreign affairs and loved to discuss both.

Vic served in the U.S. army 1953-55 as a French interpreter for the commanding U.S. general in Verdun, France. He received an M.A. from Columbia in 1957 and began a long career of teaching history and English literature. He taught at the Halsted School, Trinity, Harlem Prep, Brierley, Suffolk Community College, and Baruch College. In 1972 he produced a documentary film, "Year of the Woman." In 1986 he produced an original play, A Place Called Heartbreak, at the Harold Clurman Theater. In 1987 Vic helped to establish the Foundation for Mental Health in Washington, D.C.

Vic is survived by his mother, Georgia, and a sister.

1954

Paul Richard Sullivan

died at the Rhode Island Hospital on December 21 after a brief, intense struggle with cancer. Paul came to Dartmouth from the Portsmouth Abbey School. He majored in sociology and was a member of Sigma Chi, Kappa Phi Kappa, and the Newman Club.

After graduation and a tour in the army, he began his business career with the Ford Motor Company. He later joined his brother Joseph '49 in business. He spent the last 22 years in marketing with Leach and Garner, a precious metals firm in Attleboro, Mass.

and intense loyalty will

Frank Coulter Ewing of Columbia, S.C., died November 24. Originally from Olean, N.Y., he entered Dartmouth from Kimball Union Academy. He graduated from the University of New Mexico in Albuquerque where he was a member of Phi Delta Theta. In 1960 he married Patricia Peeler of Columbia, S.C., who survives him.

1962

Paul C. Armstrong

died suddenly of a heart attack at his home in Applegate, Calif., on November 18. Paul was a Class VIII C-S field auditor in the Church of Scientology and had been active in the church for many years. He maintained a lifelong involvement with music, having been a member of the San Francisco band Country Joe & the Fish in the sixties. He recently performed in the Sacramento area.

Paul came to Dartmouth from Malden, Mass., via Phillips Andover Academy. He was a member of Chi Phi and the track team, and he was an English major. Upon graduation he traveled to California where he lived and worked until his death.

He is survived by his wife, Nancy Santa Maria, and two sons.

—Ford A. Daley '61

1965

Allen Huntington McCoy

of Rutland, Vt., died at home on August 18, 1991, of Hodgkin's disease. At Dartmouth Allen was a member of the Outing Club and the ski patrol. He graduated from Ripon College in Wisconsin, earning a B.A. in economics in 1965. He served in the U.S. Coast Guard and retired as a lieutenant commander. After working for Hunnewell in financial planning, he became the manager of the Marble Bank in Springfield, Vt., and most recently was a business manager for Pringle Chevrolet in Lebanon, N.H.

Allen is survived by his mother and his brother Roger '60.

1969

David James Norden

died on November 8, 1991 at his home in Hampden Sydney, Va., following a short illness. At the time of his death, Dave was the director of the Eggleston Library and Fuqua International Communications center at Hampden Sydney College, where he was also a lecturer in Russian.

After graduation, Dave did post-graduate work in Russian at Yale, and received his master's degree in library science from Long Island University.

He is survived by his parents, his wife, Gai, and a son.