

Howard L. Luckenbach

died January 12 at home in Nesquehoning, Pa., where he had moved in retirement. Formerly of Pottstown, Pa., he was well known in the area as an outstanding retailer for the W.T. Grant Department Store, where he worked for most of his life.

He saw WW II service in a marine air wing prior to joining the Dartmouth V-12 program. He also served in the Korean conflict.

Lucky was an enthusiastic supporter of Dartmouth and served as an enrollment interviewer.

He is survived by his wife, Barbara, two sons, and two daughters.

1949

Robert Patterson Woods Castle

died in Chicago on January 17. Bob began his advertising career at J. Walter Thompson in New York in 1950. He progressed through the executive ranks, serving as vice chairman of Ted Bates in New York, president of Ayer/Baker in Seattle, and general manager of Ayer/Chicago. Most recently he was president of Robert Castle Associates, an executive recruitment firm in Chicago.

Bob served on a host of voluntary and elected boards throughout this adult life, including the Darien, Conn., planning and zoning board and board of education.

Bob came to Dartmouth from Oak Park (Ill.) High School and majored in economics and psychology. He played tennis and was a brother in Phi Gamma Delta. Prior to starting at Dartmouth he served in the Army Air Force for two years, earning the rank of second lieutenant and the American Theater and Victory medals.

He is survived by his wife, Kate, two sons, a daughter, and two stepsons. The family has requested that any gifts be made to the Lellanau Memorial Hospital in Northport, Mich.

Robert Adolph Priester

died of heart attack in Denver on January 4 and is survived by his wife, Marjorie, his son Erich, and his daughter Ann Towne '78.

Bob arrived at Dartmouth via Iowa, Wisconsin, and a tour as a flight officer in the Army Air Force. An athlete from the days when he played semi-professional basketball for $25 a game to supplement his G.I. Bill, Bob enjoyed golf, tennis, squash, and fishing. His death came shortly after he finished playing squash and entered a sauna.

For most of his career Bob was with the United Bank of Denver, where he was a senior vice president. He was active in the Boys Clubs of Denver and had been chairman of the Mile High United Way. At Dartmouth he was a member of Sigma Chi and Casque & Gauntlet.

Robert Leonard Reid

died of respiratory problems in June of 1993. Bob, who earned his LL.B. from Chicago-Kent College of Law in 1954, had been deputy director of development at the University of Illinois Foundation and at one time was associate dean of the University of Chicago's graduate school of business.

An economics major at Dartmouth and a member of Psi Upsilon, Bob is survived by his wife, JoAnne, of Chicago, and by five daughters.

John Howard Travers

of East Canton, Conn., died of a heart in December 1991. Jack served in the m and later was with the State Department he had not been in touch with the Coll recent years. His widow, Joan, survives.

William Allen White

of Cherry Hill, N.J., died on April 7. Bill's career as an actuary included positions with Mutual Benefit Life, Penn Mutual, and the American Council of Life Insurance in Washington, D.C. At his death he was chief actuary of the State of New Jersey.

Bill was '49 class treasurer from 1954 to 1959 and was active in New Jersey alumni club affairs in the sixties and seventies. His father was class of 1919. Surviving are his wife, Virginia, a daughter, two sons, five grandchildren, and a sister.

1950

Robert Jordan

died in May 1993 at the Spartanburg (S.C.) Regional Medical Center near his winter home in Tyron, N.C. For many years he had spent his summers in South Conway, N.H. Rob retired as a professor of art history at Washington University in St. Louis and had taught also at Hood College and Wheaton College. He was a highly successful painter of landscapes, having exhibited his works in galleries in New York City, Santa Fe, Bethesda, and St. Louis.

Bob came to Dartmouth from Upper Montclair, N.J., having graduated from Philips Andover. In World War II he was an Air Corps pilot and was a P.O.W. after being shot down and wounded in Germany. Bob majored in sociology, was a member of Psi U, and played on the varsity tennis team.

He is survived by his wife, Roberta, two stepdaughters, two stepgrandchildren, and his father and stepmother.

Richard E. Kirkwood

died at a local hospital in Roanoke, Va., on December 23, 1993. A graduate of Hanover High School, Dick was an English major and a member of Phi Beta Kappa. After Dartmouth he received a fellowship and attended the University of Chicago for a year. In 1963, the same year he received his master's degree in library sciences from Columbia University, he joined the library staff at Bowdoin College.

Dick retired in 1993 after 25 years as library director at Hollins College in Roanoke. He is survived by his wife, Karin, a daughter, and three sons.

Anthony Robert Terrace

died of a heart attack during surgery in St. Louis in February 1993. Bob attended Lincoln High School in Jersey City and came to Dartmouth after two years of service with the army's Third Division in Europe. He was on the football team and a member of Beta Theta Pi. In 1949, he was recruited to play football for Michigan State University, where he met and married Jen Martin. They moved to Northern California where they spent 28 years building and operating private centers for early education of young children. Bob continued his education formally and informally, but always treasured his Dartmouth years.

John C Pace Jr

12-30-92

1951

John Chandler Pace

died December 30, 1992, in Pensacola, Fla., after a brief illness. Jack earned his M.D. from Yale and did post-graduate work at McGill University in Canada. Following a brief career in medical research for the Upjohn Company, Jack left medicine to handle family financial investments. He eventually enrolled in the Columbia University School of Finance. He traveled extensively and especially enjoyed skiing in the Swiss Alps. He is survived by his mother, Katherine, of Pensacola, and a half-brother, James.

1952

William G. Kay Jr.

died February 5 of cancer. He was former executive vice president and a director of Sun Oil Company and lived in South Dartmouth, Mass. Bill was born in Philadelphia and graduated from Lawrenceville School. After Dartmouth he received a master's degree from M.I.T., where he was an Alfred P. Sloan Fellow. He was a lieutenant in the Coast Guard.

Prior to joining Sun Oil in 1976, Bill was president of Standard Brands Foods, group vice president of Illinois Central Industries, and vice president, marketing, of the Pepperidge Farm subsidiary of Campbell Soup Company. After leaving Sun in 1982 he established Wentworth Management Group, a management-consulting firm, of which he was president until his recent retirement. He was formerly a director of many business, civic, and cultural organizations and was a member of the board of overseers of the Dartmouth College Institute.

He is survived by his wife, Marcia Chellis Kay, two sons, a daughter, a stepdaughter, and a stepson.

1953

Robert Lindsay Jetter

of Chapel Hill, N.C., died at home on March 12, 1993. Bob came to Dartmouth from William Lynch High School, Amsterdam, N.Y., and was active with the Players, the DCU, and the German Club. Following graduation he attended the University of Wyoming, receiving his M.A. in history in 1954. He also studied at the University of Munich, Germany, and at the University of Chicago.

His life was devoted to his family and to education, notably as a teacher of social studies in both junior and senior high schools in Mahopac, N.Y., where he was also school district supervisor for social studies programs. Bob was an educator for more than 30 years prior to his retirement and relocation to Chapel Hill in 1987. He was active there in community affairs, serving as president of both the Teachers Association and the Civitan Service Club.

In 1961 Bob married Marilyn Ryan, also a teacher, and she and their sons Kevin and Matthew survive him. His late father, Frank, was a member of class of 1924.