

OBITUARY
HAROLD L. SMITH, JR.

Harold L. Smith, Jr. died on February 17, 2015 in Everett, Washington following a stroke. He is survived by his wife Marion, 3 children, 5 grandchildren and 3 great-grandchildren.

Hal came to Dartmouth from Deerfield Academy. He was a government major, a member of Theta Delta Chi fraternity and Dragon senior society. He earned his "D" as a member of the swimming team.

Following service as a sergeant in the U.S. Marine Corps, Hal and Marion moved to the Pacific Northwest. Originally planning a career in the practice of law he made a major shift and became a chemist with General Electric, Martin Marietta and Weyerhaeuser.

He acquired the necessary skills by taking science courses at the University of Washington while working the swing shift at Boeing. He retired in 1986.

Hal's great love was the outdoors, usually in the company of his beloved dogs. He was a hunter, fisherman, camper, hiker, sailor and gardener.
