

SOMETHING OLD,
SOMETHING NEW . . .

1800's Georgian colonial in idyllic Vermont setting with open meadow bordered by stone walls, brook, sugar maples, on land first settled by William Johnson of Connecticut around 1770. Original Indian shutters, wide-board pine floors, old hardware, spacious rooms. Greenhouse, garage, 1 horse stall shed. 5 acres with more available. Inquiries promptly acknowledged on this exclusive listing in Norwich.

Artists and writers — this unique hexagonal custom-designed contemporary may be what you're looking for. Located in a private 162 acre setting several towns north of Hanover, there are 5 bedrooms, 2 studios, horse barn, brook, ponds, rolling hills and meadows. Many special features including attractive owner financing. $255,000 Another Gardner Group exclusive.

THE GARDNER GROUP, REALTORS

*Your Upper Valley
Real Estate Center*

Main Street
Norwich, Vermont 05055

(802) 649-1232
(802) 649-1001

Braintree, Mass., in his beloved New England. He is survived by his wife Joan, a son, a daughter, and a brother, Richard E. '55.

Bill was in the Navy during World War II serving on the U.S.S. Vogelgesang (DD862) with a rating of QM3/c. After graduating from Dartmouth he went to work as a field underwriter for the Norfolk and Dedham Mutual Fire Insurance Company, moving in 1956 to southeastern Massachusetts as a special field representative for that company. In 1965 he moved to Syracuse to become the firm's regional manager in New York State, where he remained for the balance of his career.

Bill was active in St. Andrew's Episcopal Church in Syracuse, serving on the vestry. He was also a licensed diocesan lay reader for the Central New York Episcopal Diocese.

His classmates extend their belated sympathy to his wife and the other members of his family.

♦ ♦ ♦

ELLIOT WINSOR BURBANK JR. of Pittsfield, N.H., died at the Concord Hospital on May 3 after a brief illness. He is survived by his wife Betsy; a son; five daughters, including Lydia J. '81; a brother, Albert C., who was in the V-12 program at Dartmouth; five grandchildren; and several nieces and nephews.

The Burbanks lived in Hanover for a time, and Elliot graduated from Hanover High before coming to Dartmouth. He was a U.S. Navy veteran of World War II, having served as a flight instructor and attaining the rank of lieutenant commander. He was a captain and airline pilot for T.W.A. for 29 years and had retired on May 1. Many of us had the pleasure of seeing him and Betty at our 25th reunion.

Elliot chaired the board of trustees and was treasurer of the First Congregational Church of Pittsfield. He had also served on the Pittsfield School Board and on the town budget committee. He was a member of the Peterson-Cram American Legion Post of Pittsfield and the Winnepesaukee Lodge, F&AM, in Alton.

His classmates extend their sympathy to his wife Betty and to the other members of his family.

♦ ♦ ♦

RICHARD BRUCE CASTLE, a copy editor for the Christian Science Monitor, passed away on December 28, 1981, in Boston. He is survived by two brothers, including Robert H. '40, a sister, and his mother. His father was Harold A. Castle '14.

Richard enlisted in the Army Air Corps in September 1942 and was a pilot, holding the rank of lieutenant, with the 46th Troop Carrier Squadron, serving in the South Pacific. He returned to Dartmouth to complete his studies and was also a member of Theta Chi fraternity.

After working for a while on a hometown newspaper in Potsdam, N.Y., Richard was hired by the Monitor in 1948. He did a bit of reporting and writing but preferred the editing side, which he continued for the rest of his career.

He was vice president, ex officio, of the Fenway Civic Association and a member of the Interfaith Council in Chelsea, Mass., where he worked with youth, crime, and minority affairs. He also did volunteer work in prisons, state hospitals, and police civilian workshops.

His classmates extend their sympathy to his family.

1951

FRANZ SCHUBERT YEOMANS died suddenly from a massive coronary attack on November 18, 1981, in Fairport, N.Y.

Franz came to Dartmouth from Wypotitlock, Maine, where he attended Portland High School. At Dartmouth, he majored in sociology, was a member of the Russian Club, and was an R.O.T.C. student.

Upon graduation, he served as an officer on the carrier U.S.S. Bataan off Korea. He then returned to Washington, D.C., where he spent a year as a Russian linguist in the National Security Agency. While in Washington, he met and married Margaret Henderson (University of Florida '52). Next came destroyer duty in the North Atlantic and then discharge.

In 1955 he joined Gulf Oil in Washington, D.C., in retail sales. In 1958 he became a sales representative in plastic packaging for Kordite Corporation, which subsequently became Mobil Chemical Company.

Richard McSorley '50, a good friend of Franz's, has written: "I first met Franz in 1964 at Mobil Chemical. During the sixties and seventies, Franz was the national fleet administrator and in addition ran the incentive awards program for all departments of the plastics division. A visit to Franz's office was always a delight. More than not, a Navy story or humorous anecdote about undergraduate days was in order. More recently, Franz was in real estate and local politics. The class of 1951 has lost a loyal Dartmouth son." Dick also noted that he was privileged to give the eulogy at the memorial service for Franz.

Franz is survived by his wife Margaret, together with two sons, including David '79, and one daughter.

1953

JOHN TILDEN VILES died in Boyton Beach, Fla., in September 1980. John came to Dartmouth from Augusta, Maine. He left senior year to join the Army and then returned to Maine, where he was in the transportation business. In 1957, he moved to Florida and began the National Trailer Company, which is in the business of moving house trailers. John is survived by his wife Carrie Mae and three children.

♦ ♦ ♦

GEORGE SCOTT WORTHINGTON died in Akron, Ohio, in June 1981. Scotty came to Dartmouth from Akron and was a member of SAE in college. He left school during our junior and joined the Army Counter-Intelligence Corps. He later returned to Akron and worked for Goodyear and the Brennan Company. At his death, he was the principal owner of the Blair Company, which sold data processing equipment and accessories. He leaves his wife Kay and one daughter.

1955

RICHARD KELLY MCCORNACK died in Oakland, Calif., on April 17 following a month's