

Ed Ephraim
Norwalk, CT

Date of Death: 10/25/2002

It is part of our enduring Dartmouth experience to have been among Ed's friends, both during our College days and thereafter.

A native of Brooklyn, Ed had spent many of his boyhood summers in New Hampshire, so when it came time to choosing a college there was really no second choice to Dartmouth. During his four years, Ed's roommates included Al Robbins, Stan Drazen, Bob Filderman, George Lefcoe and Bob Werbel. Ed majored (and graduated with distinction) in Economics and at our commencement he was commissioned as a naval officer. He was also on the golf team, a pastime that he continued to enjoy throughout the years.

After several years in the Navy, Ed attended Yale Law School and, upon graduating, he chose to enter his family's commercial printing business rather than practice law.

Ed spent many happily married years living in Norwalk, Connecticut with his wife Hope and their daughter Jenny. Even though Ed lived in the suburbs, he was a true New Yorker at heart, as he enjoyed taking in the New York music, cultural and restaurant scene, as well as an occasional poker evening, with former Dartmouth classmates.

Ed could be counted on to respond to a good story with a hearty laugh. He always had a good word for everyone and over the years we never knew him to have spoken ill of anyone.

Ed died too young in 2002. He had dealt with his last illness as he had lived his life...with quiet dignity and undemanding of others. Rest in Peace, Ed.
