

Philip Donald Blanche

Died: November 25, 2004

Phil died at the age of 65 on Thursday, November 25, 2004.

Other than brief references in The Green Book and The Aegis, and despite a diligent search, no information whatever has surfaced about Phil for the years since he left Dartmouth.

He came to the college as a freshman from Pasadena, California, where he went to high school. He was on the school newspaper, managed the baseball team, and played tennis. In the briefest of entries, the Aegis reports that he majored in biology at Dartmouth.

In 1986 he lived in San Francisco, and in 2001 he lived in Berkeley, California, according to 25th and 40th Reunion Yearbooks for those respective years.