

Jon Robert Davidson

Died: March 29, 2002

Jon died on Friday, March 29, 2002 at the age of 61.

Jon grew up in Forest Hills, New York, and went to high school there, graduating cum laude. He was also on the school newspaper, the student council, and in the band.

The Aegis chronicles an active life at Dartmouth. He was a senior fellow with a major in psychology, and a member of Phi Beta Kappa. He was involved in dormitory student government and was the dorm Athletic Chairman his junior year. He was also a member of the film society in his senior year. During all four years he was in the psychology club, and was a research assistant in psychology his senior year.

Little is known or available about his years after he left Dartmouth, and he declined participation in our 25th reunion yearbook in 1986 and 35th reunion directory in 1996. An advanced Google search results in no information that could, practically, be confirmed.
