

Class Notes—May/June 2003 issue of DAM

1962 "You take the low road and I'll take the high road and we'll both get to Scotland together." As this issue arrives there are only a few more days left to call David Pritchard, our tour guide extraordinaire, or tripmeister Tom Komarek to sign up for the class Scotland trip. Beginning Thursday, July 31, and through Friday, August 8, is "The Scottish Enlightenment and the Lowlands." The optional "Highland Tour" extends through Wednesday, August 13. As I write these words on a wintry New England morning in late February I can visualize what a fine excursion this will be. The London-Wales-Ireland extravaganza of 1999 is an invaluable treasure in my memory bank and the Scotland trip will be a superb rival. Carpe diem!

"Around the girdled earth they roam." David Feingold, anthropologist, has been exploring South East Asian culture since the 1960s. He is director of Ophidian Films, Ltd., and works for UNESCO in Bangkok, Thailand. He makes films for the United Nations and for PBS. David's latest effort is a film entitled "Trading Women," a documentary about the exploitation of hill tribeswomen in Southeast Asia and the sex trade of Bangkok. (The film premiered in New York City on March 4th at the Asia Society.) Michael Stephen, ever alert to important news on the listserv, wrote that he has resided in Southeast Asia for almost twenty-five years, spends half his time in Cambodia, and makes his base in Singapore. Mike writes, "I do not claim to be an expert on anything, but would love to see any classmates passing through" and can be reached at [address unavailable, ed.].

Charles G. Cohen is the founder and chairman of the law firm, Cohen and Grigsby, in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. After Dartmouth, Chuck graduated from the University of Michigan Law School and became skilled in arbitration. Recently the Jewish Healthcare Foundation named Chuck chairman of its Board of Trustees. Charlie Balch reported on a fantastic Washington, D.C., area get-together of classmates at the home of Ken Jones recently. There was "instant fellowship and news of interesting lives, both men and women: Everyone was on a similar footing. We each knew a little, but not much, about each other. The total mingling made it work." There were 11 Washington-area '62's present and all expressed interest in getting together again soon, with double the number of interested area classmates, for another party outdoors during the good weather.

David Dalton recently became affiliated with Bannon and Hebert Properties, LLC in Middlebury, Connecticut. David brings experience in manufacturing (Waterbury Style, Inc.) and sales (ITW Waterbury Buckle) to the position. He lives in Watertown, Connecticut, with his wife Patricia and formerly served as vice chairman of the Watertown Town Council and Board of Education.

I find that, again, I will end this column with a fervent prayer for reason and peace emanating from our fine nation and spreading throughout the world. At this writing in the waning days of February, though, the national pursuit of reason and peace seems tragically sidetracked.
