

WARREN LOOMIS, CLASS OF 1962

A great friend and classmate, Warren (Zog) Loomis, has died of complications relating to esophageal cancer. He was diagnosed around the time of our 45th reunion this June, fought the cancer valiantly with the support of his wonderful family and friends, but was sadly unsuccessful. His daughter Molly reported that Zog died peacefully in his sleep on November 2, 2007, having said goodbye to those most dear to him.

Over 200 people crowded into the Dartmouth Boathouse on November 8 to pay tribute, including Bill Baschnagel, George Beller, Fred and Sara Cook, Colin Harley, Stu Johnson, Bill Pierce, John and Nancy Walters, John and Judy Wilkinson, and Art and Sandy Williams.

Among other things, Zog was one of the best dancers in our class, right up there with Steve Rotter.

He left us with the same directness, honesty, courage and grace that he lived his life.

Fred Cook '62