

Steven Goldthwait died February 28, 2008, of myeloma. A native of Newport, Rhode Island, Steve came from a large Dartmouth family, including father Lawrence Goldthwait '36, two uncles in the classes of '33 and '35, and a cousin in the class of '71. Steve was a geology major, and very active in the Outing Club and Bait and Bullet. After serving as a pilot in the Air Force, he flew for Aloha Airlines for 12 years, and served in the Federal Aviation Administration for the past 21 years in Minneapolis, Minnesota. His passions were family, travel and the outdoors, and he is remembered for his sincere interest in other people's lives, his dry wit and his courage. Despite his cancer, Steve remained optimistic and determined, even completing a 100 mile bike ride last September. He is survived by his wife of 27 years, Merritt, and two children..